Notes:

How to use this booklet:

1. Make sure you are within the regulations for each area and species. Hunting regulations by area and species can be found at: <https://www.dnr.illinois.gov/hunting/FactSheets/Pages/default.aspx>
2. Fill out the date and location each time you go afield hunting or scouting.
3. Indicate how many of what species you observed and/or harvested by date.
4. This record will help you keep track of information that needs to be reported in the post-season hunter harvest survey distributed by IDNR.
5. Use the notes section at the bottom of each page to record things like weather, time spent afield, people who hunted with you, property damage to be reported to the landowner, and other thoughts worth remembering.
6. Keeping records like this is a good way to ensure accurate reporting for check stations or surveys.
