The EDI Program

The Electronic Documents of Illinois (EDI) program is the state’s foremost, enduring archive of Illinois agency documents and is available freely through the Internet. The Illinois State Library maintains the hardware, software, and protocols required for continuous accessibility to state documents. Agencies can easily submit electronic documents with descriptions (metadata) to the repository.

The State Library Act (15 ILCS 200/21) requires State Agencies to deposit their public documents to the Illinois State Library. The Library sets standards for agencies to follow, stores documents, and maintains access for the public. The Administrative Code (Sections 30/5.01 and 30/20.120) outlines procedures for complying with the State Library Act. If you have questions regarding the depository program, please contact Blaine Redemer, Illinois Documents Coordinator, 217-524-4185.

The Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) announced that patching and resurfacing work will begin Wednesday, August 11th on US 24 at Gilzo Ln. in Peoria County.
This is the uploading utility for files described in metadata records created in the ISL Metadata Generator. Using this page, you can upload the files (one or more) that are part of a single publication described in a metadata record. The Electronic Documents Initiative makes no assurance that scripts will function if deposited.

Tips for a successful upload:

- Upload files in the order you want them presented to the users. If one of the files is the title page or a menu page that serves as a table of contents, that file should be the one uploaded first.
- Write a helpful, brief description of the file since the description will be displayed in a menu for users in the depository along with the record.
- Check each file for the software program and version since they may be different for each file.
- Check whether the file is the last one to be uploaded.

1: Title: Chicago Women's Health Risk Study: A Report to the National Institute of Justice, June 2000

Volume/Number:

Issuing Agency: Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority

Description: To help a broad array of practitioners identify women at greatest risk, the Chicago Women's Health Risk Study explored factors indicating significant danger of death or non-fatal injury in intimate violence situations. A collaboration of Chicago medical, public health and criminal justice agencies, and domestic violence advocates, the CWRS compared longitudinal interviews with physically abused women sampled at hospital and health centers with similar interviews of people who knew intimate partner homicide victims.
