

BIG TEN ACADEMIC ALLIANCE: RESPONSIBLE CONDUCT OF RESEARCH COLLABORATIVE

Inclusivity and Research Integrity: Who Is Responsible

VIRTUAL CONFERENCE | OCTOBER 13 - 14, 2021

We invite you to participate in a conversation about the changing landscape of research ethics. Research integrity is not often spoken about in terms of diversity and inclusion. This free two-day virtual conference will address some of these fundamental questions.

- Why does diversity and inclusion matter to research integrity
- What does the scientific community gain through the contributions from scholars of underrepresented populations? How does this promote the public perception of science?
- How is the quality of science improved when each of us steps up and supports inclusive environments?

This conference welcomes those interested in Responsible Conduct of Research (RCR) education, including research integrity leaders, educators, research administrators, graduate students, and postdoctoral scholars.

This annual conference is sponsored by the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign and the Big Ten Academic Alliance as a commitment to best practices and applications of RCR education.
