illinois1867 Taking in a beautiful view of #Foellinger and the #McFarland Memorial Bell Tower on the #ILLINOIS South Quad from the Stock Judging Pavilion.

Did you know, the 30,000 square foot stock pavilion was built in 1913 in a #Renaissance-style design for $112,000.

illinois1867 "When there was something that mixed together bikes, which I love, and #cancer, which I hate, I couldn't imagine anything that was a better fit for what I should be giving my time to, outside of education. What I've enjoyed most is the community aspect.

@illini4000 works very hard to help there be a community among anyone that's been impacted by cancer, here and elsewhere. That's been one of my big goals with I4K is to grow with the other cancer-fighting organizations to make it so that anyone who comes to this school who has a story or some way that cancer has impacted them, they can find other people who will resonate with them and if they're searching for something in regards to their cancer experience, there's something they can find." illinois1867 Does that #snowman have a unibrow? Regardless, he's pretty cute! Stay warm, #Illini.

illinois1867 Rumor has it that there's going to be a Harry Potter spin-off movie trilogy taking place at an American wizarding school. J.K. Rowling, we think #ILLINOIS' Altgeld would fit right in.
